Often happens when I take this walk,
My mind starts telling me that I am wrong
And none of this is what it seems Thats been going on

And when I'm home i wish that you would call
Cuz I'm not sure you really care

Often happens when its getting dark
My heart starts telling me little lies
Like all of this is leading up to so paradise

And we're just not talking cuz you don't have the time
My heart keeps lying, saying all be fine

I've been wasting countless hours
Make believing you'd be coming round
I've been wasting countless days
And something clearly out of my power

Often happens when I start to sleep
I imagine we can really talk
And we're saying all the things
That awake we only thought

And sometimes we're getting on
We give this things some sparks
Sometimes the strangest goes dark

I've been wasting countless hours
Make believing you'd be coming round
I've been wasting countless days
And something clearly out of my power

And my heart keeps lying
Saying I'll be fine
Yeah my heart keeps lying saying I'll be fine
