Little boy, alone in your bed
Who will counsel
Be still, who will counsel (3x)
Be still and know you're not alone

Brothers and sisters don't share blood anymore
But we've all seen each other bleed
Families aren't birthed by blood anymore
Families are two moms that agree

Two adults create wounds and let them fester
The fifteen they were to foster
What does it all mean to me?
When I'm all grown up without identity
Be still, who will counsel (3x)

Be still and know you're not alone
Who will show up, to shut down
The orphanages and the fatherless towns
The images of the voiceless sounds
Of the unborn heroes who look down
Upon their mom and dad
Who never were the joy they should've had

Who will counsel the kid like me
Who will counsel, who will counsel
Who will counsel, who will counsel
Be still, who will counsel (3x)
Be still and know you're not alone
Who will counsel the kid like me (4x)

who will counsel the kid like me (4x)
who will counsel
