There's too many problems here to fix them when we can
And though the surface shines veneer I just don't understand
How can I walk down the aisle, pass through a theater door
While as our reel proves built to spill and ends up on the floor

Is it going to change?
Cause our love feels weighted down

Yesterday you told me that the world is full of men Who all are out to get you but you'll never let them in And somehow I got through where no one's ever been before
So if it's true that I've arrived just open up the door

Is it going to change?
Cause our love feels weighted down
Yeah, our love feels weighted

What can I say? What can I do?
Your wall is up and big, my battering ram is bamboo
Is it too late, honey, to try?
I've come around to realize nothing makes us wiser

And how is this a way to live? And what do you achieve?
When every time I challenge you, you stand right up and leave
The physical was wonderful, the company is great But everything that's after that I guess we'll have to wait

Is it going to change?
Cause our love feels weighted down
Yeah, our love feels weighted down
Yeah, our love
Yeah, our love
Yeah, our love feels weighted down
Yeah, our love

Yeah, our love
Yeah, our love feels weighted down
