What does it do

When it's used and thrown away

When it doesn't understand

Love's not a game you play

How does it cope

When it doesn't feel its' worth

When there's no one who understands

At least not here on earth

Where does the lonely heart go

When the laughter turns to sorrow

When it doesn't care to look outside

Or forward to tomorrow

What does it do will it ever feel again

Or should it run and hide

I'll tell you where it goes

If you promise to believe

That every broken heart

Becomes a pair, just wait and see

Where does the lonely heart go

When the laughter turns to sorrow

When it doesn't care to look outside

Or forward to tomorrow

Where does the lonely heart go

When it breaks and needs to heal

When it hurts so much

You wish you couldn't feel
