Summer falls, winter crawls in darkness
Step inside, whatever keeps you warm
And it's a long way back to the center
And you can't stay here
You can't stay here

Once you reached and stopped the stars from falling down
You put them back and then you stopped the star from shining on
And it's a long road to the hills I'm climbing now
But you can't stay here
No you can't stay here, no no no

And angels they have no wings
And there's no one singing in heaven
When you fall between the cracks
You see that hell is boiling over

So many times you packed your things
And you stored them in a lover
And now you're falling true on someone else
And there is nowhere to take cover

But you can't go there
No you can't go there, no no no
