Lift your head from it's weary state
See you rise and fall and hesitate
You're gathering your pieces, ready to go now

Finish your drinks and here's to them all Shattered and broken by the pain of it all Things you remember, the words you cannot recall

You've been uptown, downtown and everywhere in between
Seen your upside, downside, all you have been

And I see your picture frame on our mantelpiece
I sometimes I imagine you strolling down urban streets
But it's over now

Who was there to remember? They carried you down
Did you fall on a friend or straight to the ground?
The message came over the presence of your sons
And time is a thief, time is a storm
Comes with you even when you're alone
Here's to the times I've spent in my mind with you

You've been uptown, downtown and everywhere in
between
Seen your upside, downside all you have been
You been uptown, downtown and everywhere in between
See your upside, downside all you have been

And I see your picture frame on a mantelpiece
I sometimes imagine you strolling down urban streets
And I see your picture frame on a mantelpiece
But it's over now
It's over now

Lift your head from its weary state
Seen you rise and fall and hesitate
Gathering your pieces ready to go now
You're ready to go
