It's a shame when things happen and falter
How to last when we're fighters in round
If I'm blameworthy blame up the river
And laugh as the water sheds down

She's always thinking that he loves her not
And he's always thinking that she loves him lots
Ease the days living with uneasy thought
And she's out of the reasons that brought her

It's a game in the hammerhead waters
How to glide without brakes in a crowd
Hold your breath and ascend to the alter
And clear your head on your way down

She's always thinking that he loves her not
And he's always thinking that she loves him lots
Ease the days living with uneasy thought
And they're out of the reasons that brought 'em

Things aren't over but they feel gone
Keep running over the last few times
Half a year older and on the verge of Hindsight
