Boy (speaking): Mom, where does all the water go?

Mom (singing):

The water in the bath tub dear
It burbles down the drain
It takes a very long, long trip
And it ends up back as rain

I see that you remember these (?)
Now listen this is true
The water travels through a pipe
Not seen by me or you

It travels down the house and street
To rivers far away
To join the mighty ocean
Where it doesn't always stay

The clouds you see up in the sky
Take water from the sea
They often send it down again
As rain on you and me
