It's lonely in the city where the streets spell out your name
And I swore the day you left that I would never be the same
And you say (you say) we'd never be apart,
But it's getting hard to live without my heart.

And you're not just a line in a song,
But if you were, I would sing you all night long.

Cause I'm trying to make things better
But it's like changing the weather and I know
If you just stay one more day,
We'll say all of the things that we wanted to say.

You said that I should just move on
You and me are dead and gone,
This has gone on for too long.
And I try (I try) to make it work this time.
Cause if I could make you mine,
Everything would be just fine.

And you're not just a line in a song,
But if you were, I would sing you all night long.
With every promise you made was a promise you broke
And I can't move on, no.

Cause I'm trying to make things better
But it's like changing the weather and I know
If you just stay one more day,
We'll say all of the things that we wanted to say.

And on that night we met, you said four words I can't forget.
And on that night, you left a burning image in my head.
Words. Can't forget. You said.
"You let her go."

Cause I'm trying to make things better
But it's like changing the weather and I know
If you just stay one more day,

We'll say all of the things that we wanted to say.
(Let her go) Cause I'm trying to make things better
(Let her go) But it's like changing the weather and I know
(Let her go) If you just stay one more day,
(Let her go) We'll say all of the things that we wanted to say.
