And I, can't seem to understand, the reason why I'm hurting

Was this part of Your plan and is it going to end I've been running for so long and the sky is getting darker

Looking for a place where I can stand until it

Grasses greener on the other side, where I don't belong

Sometimes it's lonely but I'll stand until I see Your face again

You are the one who brings the rain
That falls to wash away my pain
And in that darkness I can see
The light of hope alive in me

And I believe You when You say Your eye is on the sparrow
I know You watching me, I know You set me free
From all the fear that used to hold me down, a better way I've found
It's time to heal and time to grow into the child You used to know

You are the one who brings the rain
That falls to wash away my pain
And in that darkness I can see
The light of hope alive in me

You are the one who brings the rain
That falls to wash away my pain
And in that darkness I can see
The light of hope alive in me

And I don't know where were going
But I don't care about that Because I feel Your hand in mine

You are the one who brings the rain
That falls to wash away my pain
And in that darkness I can see

The light of hope alive in me

You are the one who brings the rain
That falls to wash away my pain
And in that darkness I can see
The light of hope alive in me

You are the one who brings the rain
That falls to wash away my pain
And in that darkness I can see
The light of hope alive in me, in me, in me
In me, in me, in me
