I learned a lesson on my first day
You were far too divine to say
How can you hold on to a mistake?
And I told you why

Don't defend what you didn't say
Another taste for conflict anyway
Pretend again who you are today
To give a reason to contradict again

You were forever with a bitter mind
And the darkness is consuming
You talk the bullshit and you rob the blind
Now you live a lie

Don't defend what you didn't say
I've got another taste for conflict anyway
Pretend again who you are today
And try to give a reason to contradict again

Don't defend what you didn't say
I've got another taste for conflict anyway
Pretend again who you are today
And try to give a reason to contradict again

I learned a lesson on my first day
You were far too divine

Don't defend what you didn't say
Another taste for conflict anyway
Pretend again who you are today
To give a reason to contradict again

Don't defend what you didn't say
I've got another taste for conflict anyway
Pretend again who you are today
And try to give a reason to contradict again
