One step in the dark
Touch her hand just to see
If she's all alone again
Still she hasn't seen sun

But I promise you now
When she wakes there will be none
Don't know how she gets by
Sleeps with a phone on her chest

And a bottle that's totally dry
Forgets the day I was born
But if she saw me right now
She would hold me until we both die

And I could be the one who would die to
Feel your breathe

I could break into a million pieces
So just run as fast as you can for me
You mean everything

I can't deny her, I'll do whatever
To stop all the bleeding that makes
Her world so red such a delicate one
She screams so loud that I run to hide from the sound

And I could be the one who would die
To feel your breathe
But it's too far-gone
And this love must die

I could be the one who would die to
Feel your breathe

I could break into a million pieces
So just run as fast as you can for me
You mean everything

I could break into a million pieces
So just run as fast as you can for me
You mean everything

I could break into a million pieces
So just run as fast as you can for me
You mean everything

I could break into a million pieces
So just run as fast as you can for me
You mean everything
