I woke up again last night. You smell of him
Do we need to call a doctor
I don't know where you've been
Was it worth it was it worth it
Sit tight
This might be the first time that I caught you out
You gotta think twice
This might be the last time that I call you by your name.

I know you're lying to me
Cause your palms start to sweat
And your knees are getting heavy
Eyes closed you're lying to me
When your heart starts to race
And your feet are getting ready

You're fumbling for the phone on the wall
There's nobody left to call
Cause there's no one out there
It's hard to believe that no one could see
(I couldn't see)
The writing on the wall

I woke up again last night. Let the party begin
And we'll live happily ever after
I'm making you wait outside
Cause I'm worth it cause I'm worth it
Dressed to impress now
Looking your best
And you wanna get away from me
But you're obsessed with the sex girl
Should I confess that you never got the best from me

I know you're lying to me
Cause your palms start to sweat
And your knees are getting heavy
Eyes closed you're lying to me
When your heart starts to race
And your feet are getting ready

Don't stop now you're ready to go
We're at the best part of the show

Turn the lights on it's over.
The nights just about to explode
