I have rescued you from a trail of tears
In a world of fear
Did you know that I'd be there?
Every time I speak your name
There's a shiver that holds me close
From a pin prick famous place
Where heaven forgets what you should know

Did you think it would be anyone other than me dear?

You've outlasted all my friends
I buried roots and you dig them up
And you share with me my name
A perfect circle never give it up

Did you think it would be anyone other than me dear?

Empty bottles and broken shoes
You whisper close to my body "hush"
'Cause if every word could change my face
Not half as much as I need your touch

Did you think it would be anyone other than me dear?
Did you think it would be anyone other than me dear?
