All You People

(Written by Kirk McLeod and Aidan McGovern, arranged by Seven Nations)

All you people

Won't you come into the right

There's no need to fight anymore today

All you people

All you people

It seems too strange to me

That when we can talk so clear

We leave so much in doubt

When we can talk so clear

We leave so much in doubt

All you people

While my song is in the air

You're all welcome to share

My smoke, my wine

All you people

All you people

And it seems so strange to me

When we can talk so clear

We leave so much in doubt

When we can talk so clear

We leave so much in doubt

And I still wonder that the fussing

And the fighting and the shouting's all about

Na na na na na, all you people

Na na na na na, all you people

I'm already gone

So don't wake me because I'm already gone

Don't wake me

I'm already gone
