With every step I take you try to bring me down
With every breath I take your lies are all I've found
You try to tell me that you always were my friend
But even as you speak you back stab me again

You think that you're bigger
You think that you're smarter
You think that you're better
I know we fight harder

Every move I make's to spite you
Everything I say to spite you
Everyday I live so I can watch you fail
Every friend I make to spite you
And all the things I hate to spite you
And all the things you fear in me, has found a home

You claim that things are good, they're better for you there
And still you whine and cry that I'm not being fair
The things you say and do don't bother me at all Because in everything you do I know you're bound to fall

You say I lose sleep... over
Whatever it is you think
I know you don't matter
I've never felt stronger!

Every move I make's to spite you
Everything I say to spite you
Everyday I live so I can watch you fail
Every friend I make to spite you
And all the things I hate to spite you
And all the things you fear in me, has found a home

Spite Spite
Spite Spite

You think that you're bigger
You think that you're better

I know you don't matter
I've never felt stronger!

Every move I make's to spite you
Everything I say to spite you
Everyday I live so I can watch you fail
Every friend I make to spite you
And all the things I hate to spite you
And all the things you fear in me, has found a home

Spite
