Maybe I've been everything I've tried to be
And the only thing I'm going after Or maybe I can be the only one that's left to dream

Are you lost with all the things you try to lose Or all the things that you've been trying to find
We were waiting for the promise that there's no more need

Too late, never gonna find out
We've lost if we climb back down
And I know we were all just living for the world I'm taking on

Carry out another plan I've left undone
Even though I know I cannot make it
But I'll be lost without the final thought of where you are

It's getting harder as I'm climbing up this wall
I start to wonder if we'll make it through this I need to know if I've been getting close; it seems so far

Too late, never gonna find out
We've lost if we climb back down
And I know we were all just living for the world I'm taking

On with you, I can't lose
It's all messed up
But now I'll take
Yeah, now I'll take the fall

Too late, never gonna find out
We've lost if we climb back down
And I know we were all just living for this Living for this

Too late
We've lost if we climb back
I know we were all just living for the world I'm taking on

Too late, never gonna find out
We've lost if we climb back down
And I know we were all just living for the world I'm taking on

Too late
We've lost if we climb back
I know we were all just living for this
