String me up, shoot me down
I need a moment
To clear my mind and to make the great escape
I need a phone, and I need another number
I need some time just to rearrange my fate

And it suits my soul
It's gonna be like the way it's told
There'll be red balloons and a big parade in the morning
And it suits my mind
Just to believe that we've got the time
To remember why the sky is high in the morning
And it feels all right
I'm letting go in my dreams at night
There's a road ahead and it's going on forever
And I know that everything is all together

So string me up, shoot me down
It's getting better
I feel that I've gotten over you by now
The story of the making of how things are going
Is short and sweet, and it makes me glad somehow

And it suits my soul
It's gonna be like the way it's told
There'll be red balloons and a big parade in the morning
And it suits my mind
Just to believe that we've got the time
To remember why the sky is high in the morning
And it feels all right
I'm letting go in my dreams at night
There's a road ahead and it's going on forever
And I know that everything is all together

And it suits my soul (it suits my soul)
It's gonna be like the way it's told (like the way it's told)
There'll be red balloons and a big parade in the morning
And it suits my mind (it suits my mind)

Just to believe that we've got the time (to believe that we've got the time)
To remember why the sky is high in the morning
And it feels all right
I'm letting go in my dreams at night
There's a road ahead and it's going on forever
And I know that everything is all together
