When all he wanted was more time to forget
When all she wanted was a life to regret
It's so much easier to lie to a friend
It's so much easier to lie to defend
And that's the way I know it's hard to forget
The spoken words they're just a part of regret

If I had have known I'd try to understand you better
If I had have known I'd try

When all I wanted was a chance to forget
And never know the pain of hope and regret
I lost a friend because I couldn't see
I lost a friend because she wants to be free

And every word she said was wrong
So wrong so wrong
When times are bad I came so strong
So strong so strong so strong

Understand a little better
Understand a little more
Understand the words that matter
Every word she said was wrong

Understand a little better
Understand a little more
Understand the words that matter
Thoughts have never been so strong
