Three steps out the door and I already feel it
The weight of your world is weighing down my shoulders
And I wonder to myself if I'll ever make it out of this mess that I've made

But you know what things get rough And I'll have to learn to deal with all this stress I put myself through
I really wish I never met you

Maybe I'm better off alone
Than wondering where you are and what your doing
Because I've come to the conclusion
That me plus you equals no good
Wish we could but what's the use any more
Honey were done we had our run and it's over

I've been thinking of ways to get over you and surprisingly
It's going well ideas are flowing soon you'll be outta me
For good this time cause I know I can't spend Another minute thinking about you (minute thinking about you)

But you know what I'll blame luck
And I'll have to learn to deal with all the stress I put myself through
I really wish I never met you

It's over
I'm better off without you

Maybe your better off alone
Than wondering where I am and what I'm doing
Because I've come to the conclusion
That me plus you equals no good
Wish we could but what's the use anymore
Honey were done we had our run and it's over
