"Come Of Age"

Is this what you've been waiting for
You know you're gonna change the world
You get to be invisible
Now you're not ready for life
You're not ready to die

Things are so much different now that you've come of age
Look straight and hard and far ahead for something you can save
Things are so much different now that you've come of
age
Walk right into your destiny decisions have been made

It always seemed much later on
The time has come you're on your own
This is the dream it's coming true
Too fast desire can't help you

This is what you've been hoping for
You know you'll never change the world
You think you're so invincible now
You don't know the truth, you can't live the lies
