Funny how your head never leaves the clouds
When you're walking down the street
Stepping through the air so non-chalant
You try so hard to flaunt- the sight is such a comedy

I know it doesn't seem like such a long way down
But you're coming close to the edge
Anyway you think you'll never fall
The problems aren't so small - you try impressing all those friends

It's written on your face- anyone can see
You are better than everybody
It's written on your face- anyone can see you really think you know it all

Funny how the words tumble from your mouth
Your head's not even in the room
Lecturing to fill up every lull
To listen is too dull for such an empty skull, it's true

I know it must get very lonely at the top
Living high up on that hill
Anyway, I'm knocking at your door
You can't hide anymore
You're pretending to ignore me still

It's written on your face- anyone can see
You are better than everybody
It's written on your face- anyone can see you really think you know it all
