Right now I feel as though this regret will bury me Right now I feel that I don't know where I'm going or where I've been Back then family and friends knew who I was and who I'd be Back then there was never an end and I've never been so condemned

Honey stay home won't you please stay home?
I've tried my best to take care of you
Be a good boy, write me letters
You know that I, I love you

Right now I'm torn between Between myself and my broken wings
Right now I'm sleeping on the ground,
'Cause my hair fell out from passing grace

Time will heal, can't you tell?
Time's all I have in this life
And all I know is all I've been told
Never to doubt a single word

So honey come home, won't you please come home?
Don't you care? Don't you care for me?
Be a good boy, write me letters
You know that I, I love you

So honey come home, won't you please come home?
Don't you care? Don't you care fore me?
Be a good boy, write me letters
You know that I, I love you

These words are every song I sing what must be sung
The memories shared and sweet goodbyes
It's goodbye time for a long time
I've loved the time we've shared
