I was calling just to say I loved you
I know you're out there tonight
Long time ago I held you tight
My heart knows of a broken promise I know of fortune that came and went too far with my emotion Who could ignore the cold

Every time you missed the love I sent I scanned the windows won't forget I curse the moment I felt you turn to stone wakin' up to the sound to the sound of a broken heart I found out it was time to say goodbye

Now I'm standing here mystified
Woman you hurt me
You traded my love alive
Never understanding why
feel the hard cold steel of pain
It cuts me don't you know
Leave me mystified once again
Mystified you made me go

All I wanted was a chance to say I think of you she won't see me and she sure won't speak my name she's all lost in a world so condescending that's a price I cannot afford to pay

I was calling just to say I loved you but I don't know if you're out there tonight This scene slowly fading out of sight no longer crying my tears of cold remorse that distant place in my heart still hurts of course I do believe I will turn and say goodnight

Now I'm standing here mystified
Woman you hurt me
You traded my love alive
Never understanding why
feel the hard cold steel of pain
It scars me don't you know
Leave me mystified once again
