Have you ever thought about how nothing lives without the light
But you can go blind staring at the sun.
Sometimes when I look at you I have to turn away
But I can't bare the darkness when you're gone
And I reach out for you.

Don't know where to begin,
Always outside looking in.
Don't know how to begin,
Always outside looking in.

Now I only think about how I can't live without the light,
I take my chances staring at the sun.
If I could only look at you I would never turn away
because I can't bare the darkness when you're gone
And I'd reach out for you.

Don't know where to begin,
Always outside looking in.
Don't know how to begin,
Always outside looking in.
