Who Wants To Be Lonely? by Purple Prose

Who wants to be lonely?

Nobody

Who wants to feel empty?

Nobody

Who said it would be easy?

Nobody

Who said it would be fair?

Nobody

And when the bell was silent

When the veil was drawn

And all again was hidden

From the hunger of the dawn

We crossed ourselves with water

Crossed ourselves with fear

For the place had been

Wide open

And we 'd been much too near

Who wants to be lonely?

Nobody

I'm trying to find the feeling

Of the woman in me

Who said it was easy?

Nobody

I'm trying to find the meaning

Of a woman called me

Who wants to be loneyl?

No, not me

Who said it would be easy?

No, not me

Who wants to feel empty

No, not me

Who wants to be lonely?
