Yeah, Ladies and Gentelmen, it's Trooper Don talkin to you
And you know what it's about, all them parties
I don't know what their names it MPD, DVU, FAP, No matter how they cll themselves
They spraid hatred, so don't fall for them Just follow your heart, ah

Now I was born here in Germany, all of a sudden now teased and when I murdered me But I'm Trooper Don never heard of me, my history was ruff you see Never had a community of humanity,
I had to work without a break from two to three No harmony, no fantasy, and all that I had was my family
My brother, my sister, my mother, my dad giving me the love they never had Fat boys in the war so ruff, tuff, look they can never have enough Education and relation, inrenet communication, is what they do to get through to you In MPD's and DVU's, but let's just learn to live again, in peace (uh, uh, that's right)

The rythm of life feels like a bended knees always Let's come together, to share the love and peace it brings
The rythm of life, goes round until we learn to live again

Yo, there were the MPD, DVU, rasicm parties comin at
you,
Relantless as they aproach for the senceless Slowly took the lirecal program, check that you was talking you don't break that Pound back as the childrens soundtracks, talking about white power and all that trash You need to check what occured 50 years ago, now you wanna act like you don't know See, the camps in Aushwitz and Daha, sometimes I really wonder how humans could be so devolish, look what happened to the black and the judish

Yo, let's to this, lets just move this, and I tell you with the entire smoothness Let's all come tohether in peace (Uh, uh, that's right)

The rythm of life feels like a bended knees always Let's come together, to share the love and peace it
brings
The rythm of life, goes round until we learn to live
again

The rythm of life (aha)
We need to learn to live again in peace (that's right) Let's come together, to share the love and peace it
brings
The rythm of life feels like a bended knees always Let's come together, to share the love and peace it
brings
The rythm of life, goes round until we learn to live
again
