don't i look like i just woke up an hour ago i keep thinking i see somebody but there's no one around if i could ask you for a minute of your time i'd tell you that i've been awake for days that's not really true i've been walking around asleep thinking about you could have seen it coming but we were too far apart am remembering why today is so hard i'd like to take you with me it's not too far from here can someone tell me where was i yesterday and what was i doing there's absolutely no way i can tell you what you mean to me i wish that i could transfer my thoughts into what your brain is thinking there's no one who can comfort me when i get this way can someone tell me what is it that's so hard about today
