Don't knock upon my door,
I don't want you anymore.
I don't love you as before,
When you're gone you made me sore.
You were a fool and I ain't a fool no more.

Don't wait above for me,
I don't want you, can't you see.
Well, I've got somebody new,
Away of cheating, me like you.
You were a fool and I ain't a fool no more.

I want you once and twice,
But you're as cold as ice.
I want you just once more,
Don't you knock upon my door.

Well, don't wait about my home,
You know I ain't alone.
You broke my heart, it's true,
When you said we were through.
You were a fool and I ain't a fool no more.

It's such a pity, cause you're so pretty.
I'll keep you on a string, honey I'll give almost everything.

But, don't knock upon my door,
I don't want you anymore.
I don't love you as before,
When you're gone you made me sore.
You were a fool and I ain't a fool,
You were a fool and I ain't a fool,
You were a fool and I ain't a fool no more.
