When the sky has fallen like a blanket on your shoulder and the moon is like a mother looking over you forever and the dawn is so familiar you were meant to be together like a fog around a mountain-forever

Chorus:

so softly-so sweetly surrounding you completely sing you a lullabye-a lullabye to you when your breathing is the wind and your crying is the rain well I know you will remember because the music is forever the living of a lover-and the loving of another like a sister to a brother like a father to a mother

(Chorus
