

Amy Speace "Blue Horizon"

Visit "Blue Horizon" on MotoLyrics.com

If I die before my mother does then I would fly beyond the blue and paint the moon the color of her eyes
and give my shoes away

Or if I die the way of memory
A grass-stained tear around its neck then I'd be sure to comb out all the knots and leave this street in my dust

But I just keep running on
I can't be sure where to lay my sorry head Looking up at the same old sky, stuck beneath the blue horizon
Lo la lo la lay

If I die the way our friendship did
No regret and no goodbye
A breath of air left in a line I write
No photograph or fight
But I just keep running on
I can't be sure where to lay my sorry head
Looking up at the same old sky, stuck beneath the blue
horizon
Lo la lo la lay

If love were to die without apology Take these tears you claim are lies Wipe out the wishing stars wipe out the warming sun
Leave the moon to grieve the sky

So if I die before my mother does Then let me fly beyond the blue
And paint the moon the color of her eyes
And give my shoes away

Visit Amy Speace page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.