Come sit beside the road, come take a long break Come watch the drawn-up cars where flowers never breathe
And you can see the people toil and scurry all about
Wonder in hungry mouths, without the will to shout, shout

Kiss the trees and the leaves will sing
Forest stares over everything
You hear the oak and the ivy ring with a sound

See the sun, how its spirit flows
Over field where the thousand goes
To kiss the lip of the wind that blows all around

I'm deaf from thirty feet
It feels like just a hop
To the end of the world, that only holds a six foot rock
And when you're drifting with the tide,
Oh maybe you start to think
If we can rock the boat
Then why not make it sink, down

Kiss the trees and the leaves will sing
Forest stares over everything
You hear the oak and the ivy ring with a sound

See the sun, how its spirit flows
Over field where the thousand goes
To kiss the lip of the wind that blows all around

Kiss the trees and the leaves will sing
Forest stares over everything
You hear the oak and the ivy ring with a sound

See the sun, how its spirit flows
Over field where the thousand goes
To kiss the lip of the wind that blows all around
