"Resistance"

Your radiant form before me commands my attention
In quiet communication, with perfect reception Two cinnamon stones that shine are signalling your intention
I read you, I heed you, believe and perceive
A glowing resistance...

But I want to slip right under your skin
Where one receives what two have given
I want to fly right into your flame
So burn me up and make me arisen
Once again, just once again, please once again, just once again

One touch of familiar fingers can crush this rebellion Appealing to part of you which is at odds with your wisdom
(A hazardous smile) betrays your imminent acquiescence
Deny me, defy me, I challenge your will to break this addiction

'Cause I want to slip right under your skin
When one receives what two have given
I want to fly right into your flame
So burn me up and make me arisen
once again

I wanna slip right under your skin
Where one receives what two have given
I want to fly right into your flame
So burn me up and make me arisen
I want to slip right under your skin

I wanna slip right under your skin
Where one receives what two have given
I want to fly right into your flame
So burn me up and make me arisen
I want to slip right under your skin
