"Something About You"

set like jewels in eternity stars are hanging in a canopy protecting us from the distant dawn of morning moonlight streams through the curtain lace windchime shimmering on your face then it spreads like ripples through the pool of my existence you fascinate me and captivate me why? i guess there's just something about you
i guess there's just something about you about you sun king floral in the orange sky dream procession leaves you far behind but there's something living in the space that grows between us you hypnotise me and mesmerise me why?
