wheels are grinding at the rumour mill turning churning into overkill to manufacture all the truth you will believe in i'd happy just to drift along cast my shadow by the fiery sun but the sky's been drowned by the clouds on my horizon here they come again with all these lies squeezing them between the cracks and fissures of my mind and it's time to go baby, take a ride to the furthest shore, to the other side sat here watching how the water flows she's quite happy with the way she goes and i'll feel much better when i learn some of their secrets see people how they run around building towers on the shifting sand and I wish they wouldn't 'cos they make me feel distracted
