"Through With You"

such a complicated creature such a strange configuration a flesh and blood reflection of a distant constellation your image found perfection in the dark illumination like a sphinx without a secret like a shore without an ocean a drug without side effect a love without a potion your penetrating mystery has lost it's fascination i'm through with you
i've seen you in the sunshine though it didn't quite become you i've sheltered in your doorway when there's nowhere else to run to but that's so far behind us at this pretty pass we've come to thought you were different but you're just like the others castings for a remake of your father or your brother and every line that you shall speak was written by your mother
i'm through with you
