"World Theatre"

they're staging a show in the theatre world all the crowds have come in the stage has been set and the curtains are up for the show to begin all over the world every player is heard and his message of doom is called everywhere and is sent thro' the air and it lands in my room just watch the clown how he laughs and he sings filling the world with unspeakable things playing the hearts that just warm with every word look at the clown he laughs and he smiles into the face of each heart he defiles while in the distance the fireworks can be heard the smile that's been spreading on millions of faces who've read the reviews it's only to tell things are going so well
now it's all in the news the people with wealth are a picture of health now you must understand that all that we have and the future of love is kept safe in their hands
