I woke up this morning as the day was just dawning, held my head, wished the world away Stumbled from my bed, your voice still deafening in my head
You said can't stay, 'cause baby I can't take you

Complications from the start,
I choose the ones who'll break my heart and waste my time,
just another struggle, with the torture you call love,
But I'll be fine

You're like the breeze,
I feel you all through to me, no coming back, yeah
You say you can't stay
You're like the breeze,
You leave and you say that we'll somehow again, you know
You're like the breeze

The day is passing slowly and I won't admit I'm drowsing, not to you
The tv and the radio, they're just noise, talk of nothing new I'm fighting not to care

Complications from the start,
I choose the ones who'll break my heart and waste my
time,
It's easier to hate you, to aim afar and break you, one more time

You're like the breeze,
I feel you all through to me, no coming back, yeah
You say you can't stay
You're like the breeze,
You leave and you say that we'll somehow again, you
know
You're like the breeze

Oh-oh, You cover it up, but it shows

Oh, I got to let you go

You're like the breeze,
I feel you all through to me, no coming back, yeah
You say you can't stay
You're like the breeze,
You leave and you say that we'll somehow again, you
know
You're like the breeze
I feel you all through to me, no coming back, yeah
You say you can't stay
You're like the breeze,
know

I get back in bed, my mother said it helps the painkillers work
With luck when I wake you'll be standing there, wanna take me back again
