I had a date with suicide last night
I can't decide if she's something for me
Maybe I will sleep with her next time
So I don't have to wake up again

I ask you again dear presence
Why can't you just disappear
I've been trying and fighting for so long
To end this life and walk my lane

Within the vision of silent screams
Within the storm of passion
Within the vision of you and me
I hope we stand and fall alone

I'm so sick of you absence
Why are you always screaming at me
I've been hearing this for so long
But I don't understand your words

My nights are all in other worlds
Far away from sleeping
With the one, flying around my head
I want to move in on you

Within the vision of silent screams
Within the storm of passion
Within the vision of you and me
I hope we stand and fall alone
