I couldn't see my reflection so
All that's here in silent and still

Look in puddles and parked cars anything so
That I can stare right back into my own eyes

I couldn't see my reflection here
Just feel like a piece of deadwood
Running to the (gather)
People sit alone and don't talk to one another
So the city sinks faster with us inside

Were you looking for footsteps on the pavement
I was looking for my reflection
Then it all washes away
No one comes out when it rains
No one comes out when it rains

I couldn't see my reflection still
You soak my soul and make me (hurt) my bones

Rains drawn the city
Like it drowns my heart
Like it drowns my heart

Were you looking for footsteps on the pavement
I was looking for my reflection
Then it all washes away
No one comes out when it rains
No one comes out when it rains

Were you looking for footsteps on the pavement
I was looking for my reflection
Then it all washes away
No one comes out when it rains
No one comes out when it rains
