Find this funny i dare the audience me, the dame, the cross-minded game i don't remember how to play but i'm trying to write something without the i's and you's but those word carry so much meaning cause this is all about the i's and the you's and the terrible turns we go through this goes on and on everyday and night we hold out for the next one this goes on and on everyday and night we hold on i've got two decades underneath my belt you'd think by now i'd have this all figured out but no that's just not how this goes all you college grads and your moms and dads you just don't have a clue we're moving but in the wrong direction stay away from the mirror avoid the reflection the truth hurts so lets tell lies anything to keep us satisfied hold your breath till you make something of yourself maybe then we'll be right you gotta love how we want to succeed but we'll never now cause our generation is lazy
