Wake up each morning
Theres a frown on my face
Look across the bed
See the same empty place
The sun may be high but theres clouds in my eyes
Its the losing you put the blues in me
Friends try to tell me
"Its over let her go"
Theyre trying to help me
but they just dont know
Though were apart
you still hold my heart
Its the losing you put the blues in me
I try to drown my sorrows
Drink like theres no tomorrow
Im all alone come daybreak
Just an empty bed and an aching head
And heartaches fill my waking hours
Mistakes I can see them now
Its over and done

But youre still the one

Its the losing you put the blues in me

I fool myself Im better

But my heart wont let me forget her

That voice in my heart still haunts me

And her perfume still fills my room

And heartaches ..
