Michael Pinder)

When the sun goes down, and the clouds all frown,

Night has begun for the sunset.

See it with your eyes, Earth's re-energized

By the sun's rays everyday.

Take a look out there, planets everywhere.

When the sun goes down, and the clouds all frown,

Night has begun for the sunset.

Shadows on the ground, never make a sound,

Fading away in the sunset.

Night has now become day for everyone.

I can see it all, from this great height,

I can feel the sun, slipping out of sight.

And the world still goes on through the night.
