

Blues Moody

"Going Nowhere"

Visit "Going Nowhere" on MotoLyrics.com

Graeme Edge)

Once more I've loved I've laughed and I've lost

Now I'm alone left counting the cost

Once more sweet child of middling years

Basted again in bitter-sweet tears

I will survive solitude

But come alive

I'll love anew

(Note that the CD booklet gives this line as "Although the new")

Somebody tell me you love me

Somebody tell me you care

I've got a heart full of giving

Going nowhere (going nowhere)

Daylight will come and steal the night sights

Starlight on black replaced with gray light

Now I must go out and set my best pace

Running all day in the human race

But now I know the good news

Before you win you have to lose

Somebody tell me you love me (somebody tell me)

Somebody tell me you care (tell me you care)

I've got a heart full of giving

Going nowhere (going nowhere)

How much longer must I travel on

Looking for someone to help me (help me) sing my song

How much longer will it be

I need to find someone

For the love (find someone for the life, of me)

From me

Somebody tell me you love me (somebody tell me)

Somebody tell me you care (tell me you care)

I've got a heart full of giving

Going nowhere (going nowhere)

Visit Blues Moody page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.