Justin Hayward)

I see the headlights

Shining on the wall

It seems I've got a visitor who is kind enough to call

CHORUS

And I hope and pray, everyday

I hope and pray it's you

I thought I heard some footsteps

On the floor

And tell me am I dreaming

Or is someone at the door

CHORUS

Autumn turns to winter

And winter turns to spring

I only know the passing of the days

And if you were to ask me

About the meaning of my life

It kind of lost its meaning

On the day you went away

You know that when it comes

To matters of the heart

I thought I had it covered

But it's tearing me apart

CHORUS

Autumn turns to winter

And winter turns to spring

The summer sun still lingers

In my head

If it wasn't for the letters

That you wrote me from the heart

I'd sometimes wonder baby

If I dreamed it all instead

You see I've got to feel your hand

Upon my face

I need to get the calling

To rejoin the human race
