Poetry books and dusty boxes never opened
Walks in the rain and words that went unspoken
Shared our dreams, made believe, ran away
Forgot it once but I remembered you today

Cause the way you said my name
Is making me love you
Is making me love you
And the way you touched my face
Is making me love you
Making me love you

And all those nights laying sideways on your floor
Are making me love you
Making me love you
Making me love you
Even more

Acoustic songs, words all wrong, breathing in clear
Postcards and when you'd whisper in my ear Broken wings, bits of string, the things that you would paint
Forgot it once but I remembered you today

Cause the way you said my name
Is making me love you
Is making me love you
And the way you touched my face
Is making me love you
Making me love you

And all those nights laying sideways on your floor
Are making me love you
Making me love you
Making me love you
Even more

But sometimes, some things never change
My heart just will not disengage

Cause the way you said my name

Is making me love you
Is making me love you
And the way you touched my face
Is making me love you
Making me love you

And all those nights laying sideways on your floor
Are making me love you
Making me love you
Making me love you
Even more
