Walked into the darkest night so I lay down
And waited till the sun arrived

Felt like overlooking life the city with her blinding lights
Across the sky

Captivated by my fears and counting all the years in which
I failed to see

That everything I want to be is speaking loud and clear
And staring back at me

Tell me what you want from life

Break when there's something to hold
Take when you've given it all
Move cause you waited so long
Just leave it

Stay if you wanna get up
Stand if you wanna lay down
Leave when your holding too strong

Decide, decide

I could write a thousand lines about the way we live our lives so carefully

Who am I to set the game
'cause in the end it stays the same so can't you see

Tell me what you want from life

Break when there's something to hold
Take when you've given it all
Move cause you waited so long
Just leave it

Stay if you wanna get up
Stand if you wanna lay down

Leave when your holding too strong

Decide, decide

Walked into the darkest night so I lay down and waited till the sun arrived
