She was all alone again
He won't be coming home tonight
Whatever happened
She's wondering how to make it right
She's been all over Dallas
And he's already crossed the line
Made his way up to Tulsa
Said he needed time
The painful thing about it
It seems the road can never ends
My own faith would have to doubt it
Can he turn around again
Or is he too far gone
Too much time
Too many chances left behind
Was there not enough faith
Not enough love
Is there any hope that he'll come back home
All she really needs to know
Is he too far down the road?
Just trying to breathe

She's beginning to see
How she took him for granted
And she's not what he needs
Painful thing about it
It seems the road can never ends
My own faith would have to doubt it
Can she bring him home again
Or is he too far gone
Too much time
Was there not enough faith
Not enough love
Is there any hope that he'll come back home
All she really needs to know
Is he too far down the road?
To see the truth all I need is open eyes
As she prepares to realize
Too far gone
Too much time
It's never too late
To take a hand of faith
Is there any hope that they'll change
And now all they really need to know
Are they too far down the road?
