Storms are brewing and we are coming
You'll see us on the horizon, rolling with the stones Crushing down the forest
The beating heat blisters, but that wont stop us

The night falls, lay your head down
And we will soldier on, and as the sun opens your eyes
Well will carry on

Rest assured, we will not sleep tonight

The night falls, lay your head down
And we will soldier on, and as the sun opens your eyes
Well will carry on

I see our seeds of movement are growing
And yours are wearing so thin
If only you had the strength to pick up the pace

Your knowledge and expectations result in flooding the innocent for your security Regardless, we will hunt you down, the dogs will sniff you out
You are found, from the smell of your fear, in a room of remorseful faces
Now we watch the walls containing the wicked burn to the ground

The night falls, lay your head down
And we will soldier on, and as the sun opens your eyes
Well will carry on

Rest assure we will not sleep. we will not stop moving
And as the sun opens your eyes we will not stop moving

The charcoal ground will nourish our seeds of movement
We will watch them blossom
