We opened Pandora's box just to see if she was home
She had an apple pie a jaundiced eye and a big red telephone
She said, "Boys I know why you are here, you wanna take me for a ride But before we go I think you ought to know that I'm awful hard to hide I'm awful hard to hide"

"So how will you do in this town boys, how will you call him dead?
Will he die in his rack from a heart attack
Or from a bullet through his head?"
Then she whispered as we took her out, "He need not be afraid
'Cause deep inside the system hides the truth that you've betrayed
The truth that you've betrayed"

No where for us to run Thirty silver pieces got the job done, got the job done

Poor Pandora's life it was not as it had been portrayed A government, an accident and now the bed is made And we tried to put her back you know but we were defeated by our greed Tried again while shadow men did their dirty little deed
They did their dirty little deed, oh yeah

We opened Pandora's box just to see what we could find
And there was a note Pandora wrote just before she lost her mind
It said, 'My passing will allow a peak behind the veil of secrecy It's farther out than you can see just no telling where that trail will lead No telling where that trail will lead'
No no no no no no
